

ALEXANDRIA.
SATURDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 8.

THE SO CALLED reformers of Baltimore can't have much regard for the reputation of the city in which they live, and whose interests they profess to have so much at heart, as they proclaim to the world that it is in the hands and under the control of a set of ballot-box stuffers, greedy robbers and red-handed murderers. A city in such a miserable condition, of course, can attract only the vicious and criminal classes—people with either money or character to lose, or with even lives that they care to preserve, naturally giving it a wide berth. As a general rule "reformers" are as unscrupulous in the means they employ to attain power, as those they desire to depose are of retaining it. If there be wrong in the municipal government of Baltimore—and it would be a wonderful American city if there were not—and if the democrats have an undoubted majority there, as they have, that wrong can be corrected by and within the party, and not only without seeking the aid of the avowed enemies of the party, and of men whose past history shows that all they want to exceed that wrong is opportunity, but also without attempting to injure the fame and name of one of the fairest cities in the land. If the people of Baltimore be wise, and consult their own material welfare, they will set their seal of condemnation upon the attempt referred to by electing the democratic ticket by a rousing majority.

THE MANAGERS of the Atlanta exposition refused to invite ex-President Davis to that exposition, and the managers of the Lee monument at Richmond refused to delay for one day the laying of the corner stone of that monument so that Mr. Davis might be present; but the managers of the grand ex-Confederate reunion at Macon have not only invited him, but will make him the especial guest of the occasion. The action of the two former committees is a manifestation of the "new," that of the latter, of the "old" South. It is needless to say that the latter makes a responsive thrill deep down in the hearts of the vast majority of the people who supported the lost cause from principle, and whose national feeling compels them to sympathize with the men who led that cause.

ACCORDING to the tariff now in operation the Massachusetts fish packers get a rebate on the foreign salt they use equal to the duty on salt; but no such favor is granted the Virginia farmer on the salt he is compelled to use in making his butter. And yet, there are Virginia farmers, few though they be, who vote for congressional representatives opposed to the removal of the duty on salt, and who will vote for members of the legislature who will support General Mahone for U. S. Senator, though he will vote against the removal of that unjust duty.

ON SEVERAL occasions since the adjournment of Congress doubts have been expressed concerning the binding effect of the republican caucus of the U. S. Senate upon the action of Senator Riddleberger. No doubts were ever more groundless. A father may forget his son, and a son his father, but Mr. Riddleberger, so long as he remains in the Senate, will never forget to vote as the radical republican caucus of that body shall direct him, and all talk to the contrary is a waste of words—to those to whom words are of any value.

PERHAPS the fact that the Attorney General of Virginia, and other State officers, have now been fined heavily by a U. S. court for contempt in persisting in their vain efforts to set up a State law in opposition to the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court, may be sufficient to induce those officers to realize the extreme folly of attempting to obstruct the inevitable. The State would have been justified in opposing the federal government before 1861; in doing so now she only makes herself ridiculous.

IF THE MUGWUMPS of Massachusetts be independent enough to vote against the democratic candidate for Governor of that State, and the democratic collector and postmaster at Boston be independent enough to set at defiance the wishes of the other democrats of that city and State in respect of the retention of republican subordinates, how could the democrats there be blamed if they shall be independent enough to stay at home on election day, or even to vote the republican ticket?

THE DEMOCRATIC convention which met here to day to nominate a candidate for the House of Delegates did a proper and wise thing in selecting for re-election Judge Charles E. Stuart, who has represented this city and county for the past three terms, and who has twice had conferred upon him the honor of being elected Speaker of the House. And now it behooves all those who have the true interests of the community at heart to see that his election is doubly assured.

The Alexandria GAZETTE is one of the leading newspapers in the United States that has most fully criticized the administration. According to its views the democratic administration has not been sufficiently democratic. The GAZETTE had a right to express its opinion. It did so with the purpose not to overthrow but to correct the administration.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alex. GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8, 1887.
A newspaper man from Baltimore, here to-day, says the practical effect of the fuss the so called reformers have kicked up there will be to bring out the full democratic vote at the coming election, and to strengthen the bold democrats have upon that city, as they will claim, and with good reason, to be the special defenders of the city's good name.

Ex-Secretary and present Representative Goff, republican, of West Virginia, who was here yesterday, has been invited by General Mahone to take part in the Virginia campaign, and, after visiting the General at his home, in Petersburg, will make several speeches at such places as the General shall designate.

A gentleman from Petersburg, Va., here to-day, says Messrs. Lewis McKenzie and Charles Dearborn, of Alexandria, were there yesterday in consultation with Gen. Mahone that the General claims he will elect 67 members of the House of Delegates, and that he will have a majority of the Legislature on joint ballot, and that he includes the delegate from Alexandria among them.

Ex-Postmaster Windsor, of Alexandria, has sold another one of the three dwelling houses he recently erected on P. near 17th street, in this city. The purchaser is Mrs. Julia Chamberlain, mother-in-law of ex-Congressman E. John Ellis, of Louisiana, and the price was $18,000.

Judge Andrew Wylie, formerly of Alexandria, more recently one of the judges of the supreme court of this district, but who resigned that position on full pay a short time ago under the age privilege of the law, was yesterday admitted to practice in the court over which he once presided. His action is the occasion of some comment among the lawyers here, who say the law referred to was passed for the benefit of judges worn out by service on the bench, and not for those strong enough to practice law. The Judge is a thrifty man.

Surgeon General Hamilton this morning received the following telegrams:

TAMPA, Fla., October 7.
Four deaths from yellow fever and about twenty cases. Few of these have passed the fever stage of seventy-two hours. Many people have fled. It may be necessary to establish a camp of refuge in the country. The mails can be fumigated.
J. P. WALL, M. D.

SANFORD, Fla., October 7.
Can you loan me tents for refugees from epidemic at Tampa?
KNOX WILLY, M. D.

President Florida Health Association.
In response to this Dr. Hamilton ordered tents to be sent to Sanford. The Surgeon General has sent a dispatch to Col. Haines, superintendent of the Plant Line of steamers, and Savannah and Florida Railroad, stating that in his judgment sleeping cars should not be allowed to go beyond Palatka until the Tampa epidemic is over and the panic has been ceased.

The report of U. S. Consul General Bonham, at Calcutta, says the export of wheat from India increased from 300,000 cwt. in 1885 to 21,000,000 cwt. in 1886, and that the increase of 1886 over 1885 amounted to about 5,000,000 cwt. He says India is now second to the United States as a grain-growing country, and will soon be a formidable competitor with the United States as a producer of the staff of life.

Mr. Richardson, of Georgia, a clerk in the office of the clerk of the U. S. House of Representatives, and who has many acquaintances in Alexandria, has resigned his position here to take charge of the new free trade paper that has been started in Macon, in his State.

Mr. Randall left this morning for Atlanta, where he will deliver the opening speech of the exposition. The invitation was first extended to Mr. S. S. Cox, but he declined it. Mr. Randall doesn't think he will lose his place as chairman of the appropriations committee of the next House, and thinks that Mr. Cox, rather than Mr. Mills, will be chairman of the ways and means committee. Governor Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, is in the city to-day. He speaks very confidently of democratic success in his State at the election next month. Respecting the recent primary in Richmond, he says it fully equalled the most sanguine democratic expectations, and assures the election of the democratic ticket there.

The West Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church is in session in Parkersburg, Bishop Bowman presiding. The conference confirmed the action of a committee in purchasing a lot of land near Buchanan, on which a seminary is to be erected. The African Conference is also in session in Parkersburg.

A TRIBUTE TO LEE.—Gen. Geo. W. Morgan, of Ohio, who commanded a federal division of troops during the late war, in responding to an invitation to attend the laying of the corner-stone of the Lee monument at Richmond, wrote as follows: "We of the North and West highly appreciate the grand simplicity, strength and loftiness of Robert E. Lee's character. As a public enemy we respected him, while we fought against his cause and the preservation of the Union. As a gentleman we admired him for his integrity, and placed a high estimate on the wisdom of his course after the restoration of peace."

A GIANT.—There is a man of Indian descent named Pickett Nelson, living in Essex county, Va., who is a veritable giant. He is over 7 feet tall and weighs 340 pounds. With his arms outstretched he measures 7 feet and 4 inches from his finger tips. From the base of his hand at the wrist to the end of his middle finger is 12 inches. His foot is 14½ inches long and he wears about a No. 18 shoe. His hands are hand made, as there is no large large enough to turn them. He can easily lift 500 pounds. He is about 25 years old and is quiet and modest in his manner. He works at a saw-mill in Essex county.—Caroline Sentinel.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The democratic superintendent of Richmond last night issued an address congratulating the party upon the large vote polled in Thursday's primary.

Thaddeus Pagand, an escaped lunatic from the asylum at Staunton, was arrested in Petersburg yesterday and committed to jail. Pagand has been confined in the asylum for eighteen years.

The Shenandoah county fair closed at Woodstock, yesterday, after a prosperous meeting. The chief attraction was the lady riders. The prize, a handsome gold chain, was awarded to Miss Tommie Stickley, of Strasburg.

The ex-Confederate soldiers of Pittsylvania county held a reunion at Chatham yesterday, which was attended by a large number of old soldiers and others. A permanent organization was effected, and steps were taken to erect a suitable monument to deceased soldiers from Pittsylvania county.

The annual fair of the Virginia Agricultural and Industrial Association opens on the grounds of the association, near Petersburg, next week. The opening address will be made by John M. Langston, Gov. Lee will be present on the second day of the fair, and will deliver an address. Gen. Wm. Mahone will deliver an address to the military on Friday.

U. S. Marshal Scott served a notice on Commonwealth's Attorney Gleaves, at Wytheville, yesterday, to appear before the United States Court at Richmond, for proceeding against persons in payment of taxes. Gleaves refused to answer the summons in person, filing his answer. Notice of restraint was filed on the sheriff and clerk.

The Judge's Opinion.

After the delivery of the opinion in the coupon cases in the U. S. Circuit Court in Richmond, yesterday, counsel for the bondholders asked for a few minutes for consultation, which was granted. Subsequently the Attorney General requested that all further proceedings be deferred until this morning, as he would probably desire to file some additional pleadings before the decree was entered.

Mr. Royall's side assented to this proposition and it was so ordered.
So the cases went over.
From Judge Bond the Attorney-General will no doubt seek a way to appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

In view of yesterday's decision the parties in contempt and the Court are now getting to close quarters. The first man in all Virginia to disobey the Judge's injunctions in these cases was Attorney General Ayers. So far that fact has been overlooked by Judge Bond. The parties ruled to answer for failure to respect Judge Bond's restraining orders are Mr. McCabe, of Loudoun; Mr. John Scott, of Fauquier; and Mr. Gleaves, of Wythe—all attorneys for the Commonwealth.

The order was not served upon Mr. McCabe at all, though it may have been served upon his predecessor. The order was not served upon Mr. Gleaves by such an officer as the Revised Statutes require. It was probably served upon Mr. Scott in conformity with the law, but he disregarded it for reasons given in his answer, which was recently published in this paper.

Apparently the jail doors are opening to receive Mr. Scott. He is not the man to recede from a position taken after due deliberation, and Judge Bond has some reputation for determination.
So, as things now stand, it would appear to be likely that Judge Bond will order Mr. Scott to jail. If so—advanced in years as he is—he will go cheerfully and patiently remain until the Attorney General can bring his case before the United States Supreme Court. It may be, however, that Mr. Scott will be severely let alone and the Court look in another direction for an example to vindicate his authority.—Richmond Dispatch of to-day.

WHERE DIAMONDS ARE POLISHED.—One of the great industries of Amsterdam is the cutting and polishing of diamonds; and nearly all the finest diamonds in the world are brought there to be cut into shape. We will make a visit to one of the principal diamond establishments, and when we get there I think we shall be surprised to find a great factory, four or five stories high, and flywheels, and leather bands, and all sorts of whirling machinery in the different stories. On the very top floor the diamonds are finished and polished, and here we see skillful workmen sitting before rapidly revolving disks of steel, against which the diamonds are pressed and polished. It requires great skill, time and patience before one of these valuable gems is got into that shape in which it will best shine, sparkle, and show its purity. Nearly half the diamonds produced in the world, the best of which come from Brazil, are sent to this factory to be cut and polished. Here the great Koh-i-noor was cut; and we are shown models of that and of other famous diamonds that were cut in these rooms.—St. Nicholas.

TURTLE-LIVER OIL IN CONSUMPTION.—At the Colonial and Indian Exhibition turtle-liver oil was shown among the novel medical commodities, together with several preparations of that famous reptile-presumably valuable for invalid diet, and in particular turtle eggs, the latter consisting entirely of yolk. In their mature state the eggs have a tough skin and contain a white albumen which does not become opaque when the albumen is boiled; to obtain the eggs without the albumen the plan is resorted to, it appears, of extracting them from the interior of the animal, in which state these immature eggs are about one inch in diameter, and independent of any special effect on the system, are considered a very palatable article of food. The turtle-liver oil is given in consumption, instead of cod-liver oil, and is said to be more agreeable than the latter, when fresh; the dose commonly administered is a teaspoonful three times a day.

A ROW.—Edward C. Wall, Collector of Internal Revenue for Milwaukee, was present at the banquet to the President Thursday night, as was also Jos. Vilas, a prominent railroad man, and cousin of the Postmaster General. Mr. Wall has a shrunken leg, which necessitates his using a crutch. After the banquet was over, about 1:30 a. m., they were both in the rounds, along with a throng of other men dressed in clown-bamboo coats, when Vilas happened to stumble against Wall. In retaliation the collector treated the railroad magnate and cousin of the Postmaster General to a choice selection of personal vituperation. Mr. Vilas knocked Mr. Wall down, and all Milwaukee is wondering whether the result will be a duel or simply a change in the internal revenue office.

MR. BARBOUR.—The point in this contest is to beat Mahone. If Mr. Barbour were to die to-morrow the issue would be left as clearly defined as ever. It is true the democrats, if they win, intend to give Mr. Barbour the Senatorial place, for no man in their ranks more deserves it.—Amherst New Era.

TO-DAY'S TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[Special Dispatch to the Alexandria Gazette.]

RICHMOND, Oct. 8.—To-day Judge Bond, of the United States Circuit Court, passed upon the contempt cases growing out of the coupon suits. Attorney General Ayers was fined $500 and Commonwealth's Attorney Scott, of Fauquier, $10. Both were put in custody of the marshal to remain till they purge themselves of what Judge Bond considered contempt. The Attorney General, through counsel, will apply to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

The Court furthermore made the injunction order heretofore given perpetual.

In the Scott case, from Fauquier, Judge Bond said: "The respondent in this case seems, from his answer to the rule, to be so blinded by the ancient doctrine of State sovereignty that he does not seem to know that on an illustrious day in her history Virginia gave her adhesion to the Constitution of the United States. To punish a man under these circumstances, as the Court ought to punish a man of the ideas prevalent since the adoption of the Constitution, would be manifestly unjust, and would be as unjust as it would be to punish a blind man equally with one who can see." B. P. O.

[By Associated Press.]

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 8.—In the United States Circuit Court to-day Judge Bond fined Attorney General Ayers $500 for bringing suits under the law known as the "coupon crusher," in disobedience of his injunction order, and committed him to the custody of the marshal until the fines be paid. He also fined the commonwealth's attorneys of Fauquier and Loudoun counties for disobeying the same order and committed them until the fines are paid and the suits brought are dismissed.

Foreign News.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Intelligence has been received here that an emuete has occurred among the Chinese soldiers stationed in Duliaschan, on the Russo-Chinese frontier. Several officers were murdered. A quantity of ammunition and a sum of money belonging to the government were seized by the mutineers. The commander-in-chief of the troops was panic stricken and fled.

DUBLIN, Oct. 8.—Lord Mayor Sullivan, in his paper, continues to publish reports of the proceedings of suppressed branches of the league. The Nation mentions as an indication of the support upon which it can count in defence of the liberty of the press that several influential English and Scotch newspaper proprietors have offered the use of their premises, machinery and staffs if the government closes the Nation office in Dublin.

Fires.

OWATONNA, Minn., Oct. 8.—A fire here yesterday destroyed the Winona and St. Peter elevator and contents, about 5,000 bushels of wheat, the large ore house of N. C. Hanson, and the water tank of the Winona and St. Peter road. Loss on elevator about $15,000; warehouse and contents $1,100; tank and track $300. Insurance on most of the property.

EMPORIA, Kan., Oct. 8.—Fire yesterday destroyed the Merchants' Hotel, the livery stable of J. R. McKenzie, and the agricultural implement store of Griffith & Ewing. Loss $25,000; insurance $8,000. Mrs. M. C. Schmiding, to whom the hotel belonged, is the heaviest loser.

RAHWAY, N. J., Oct. 8.—Fire last night destroyed the lumber sheds of D. B. Dunham, a large carriage manufacturer. The loss is $4,000; insured. The fire was the work of an incendiary. The citizens are indignant and are talking of forming vigilance committees.

Evictions.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 8.—Dr. H. M. Hamlin, whose name was mentioned in a recent dispatch from Washington regarding the alleged eviction of settlers on lands in O'Brien county claimed by the English syndicate by virtue of purchase from the old McGregor and Western Railroad, was in the city to-day and in an interview reiterated his statement that hardship has been wrought and force used in several instances where settlers refused to depart from the land they had secured by right of settlement. Accompanying the doctor was a farmer named Finch who says that two weeks ago a sheriff's posse of fifteen men evicted him by force from his home where he had lived for years. He also says that local papers have made no mention of the facts because they were subsidized by the English capitalists. He says there are a number of instances where force has been used and the settlers propose to carry the matter into the courts and maintain their rights if possible.

Ravages of Hog Cholera.

GENESEE, Ill., Oct. 8.—Within the past three weeks over five hundred head of hogs have died of cholera in Western township. The disease is slowly spreading and is taking both old and young hogs. The loss from this cause to the farmers of Henry county this fall already amounts to $12,000. The disease exists in Phoenix, Elford, Wethersfield, Andover, Western Kewanee, Loraine and other townships in the county. This loss coming on the heels of the drought is very severe on the farmers.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 8.—An attempt was made last night to wreck the Yackton passenger train on the Milwaukee and St. Paul road, on a curve a mile this side of Elapoint, by fastening an oak tie on the track. The engineer discovered the obstruction too late to stop, but luckily the train was not derailed. Over 500 excursionists were crowded into the coaches, and had the designs of the villains been accomplished the loss of life would have been frightful. A sheriff's posse is on the trail of the perpetrators.

Mysterious Death.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—J. D. Raymond, U. S. Consul in this city about twenty years ago, was found dead yesterday morning in McCrady & Son's tannery at Brockville with a bullet hole in his side. Death had evidently taken place early in the night. It is not believed that he committed suicide, but how the shooting occurred is unknown. The family of the deceased live in Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Family Poisoned.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 8.—David Ogletree, his wife and two children, were poisoned at their home near Talladega, Ala., Thursday, by drinking whiskey in which strychnine had been placed by Mrs. Ogletree. They are all dead. Mrs. Ogletree had threatened to poison the entire family, and yesterday she carried out her threat.

Locked-Out Brass Workers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Over 2,000 brass workers of this city and Brooklyn are locked-out to-day because they would not relinquish the Saturday half holiday. Notices were posted in the factories owned by members of the chandelier manufacturers' association notifying the employees that they would be closed last night.

The President Gone Fishing.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 8.—This is good fishing weather and the President and his companions have gone fishing on Lake Mendota.

WALKING ON THE WATER.—Capt. Paul Boyton, the swimmer, appeared in a new role last Monday and walked on the Allegheny river, much to the astonishment of the multitude which gathered to watch the feat. It is certain that no multitude ever saw such feet—in fact, it saw little else than feet, and from their size it is rather a wonder that he accomplished the feat of walking on a point a little above the Union to the Seventh street bridge. A couple of hundred boats accompanied the pedestrian on his journey. There were boats of all kinds, but it was the steam vessels which gave him the most trouble by stirring up the water until it made rather a hazardous promenade for the captain. He walked along, however, like a barefooted boy in a stubble field, and reached the end of his journey without mishap. Then he put on a rubber suit and with a small canoe paddle propelled himself down the river.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

"Heart disease, due to tight lacing," was the cause of death given by the coroner's jury in the case of Bertha Oppenheimer, of Philadelphia, who fell back with a cry of pain while laughing at a comedian's joke in a theatre in that city Tuesday afternoon.
